KITTEN CARE

Diet

Muffin & Poppy cares for their kittens, therefore it is very important for you to follow this guide to ensure your kitten gets the care he or she may need. At 13 weeks old your kitten will need at least 4 meals a day mainly wet food - currently your kitten loves 'Felix As Good as it Looks' kitten pouches.

With time will be able to gauge how much food your kitten needs. A good guide is:

- Dry food throughout the day for your kitten to snack on.
- Plenty of fresh water.
- Wet food for breakfast and dinner.

You can find Felix on Amazon.co.uk or most supermarkets. Your little bundle of joy is also being feed Royal Canin kitten 36 which is a complete dry food and can be found on Amazon.co.uk or Pets at Home (www.petsathome.com). It is strongly recommended that you do not make any sudden changes to your kitten's diet as it could cause problems.

It is also important for your kitten to have access to plenty of fresh, clean water, preferably in a stainless steel or crockery bowl as plastic can cause acne and greasy chins.

Do not give your cat or kitten milk- it will give them the runs! Cats do not have enough bacteria in their stomach to break down the lactose it contains.

Cat litter and tray

Your kitten is currently using 'Catsan' in an open top cat litter tray and is fully litter trained. Litter will need to be changed often as cats do not like dirty litter. You can purchase Catsan on Amazon.co.uk or most supermarkets.

Grooming

Your kitten loves to be groomed. We recommend you comb your kitten at least once or twice a week to stop your kitten's hair from getting knotty and keep it lush. Please ensure your kitten has a scratching post (you don't want them to use your sofa or furniture in general).
